

Ralph Maurer is a Visiting Assistant Professor of Strategy & Entrepreneurship in the Tulane Freeman School of Business. His teaching and research focus on innovation and strategy in highly dynamic markets, with an emphasis on both technology and the cultural industries. His work and consulting experience includes time with Apple, Daimler-Benz, Chrysler, Deluxe and multiple internet startups. Ralph earned a Ph.D. from Stanford University, an MBA from the University of Florida, and a B.S. from Northwestern University.