

DANE E. REVETTE
Biographical Information

Dane E. Revette is Director of the Energy, Oil & Gas and Petrochemical sectors for Louisiana Economic Development (LED). Dane Revette's extensive background in oil and gas includes 10 years experience working for Chevron Texaco in New Orleans. He has worked in exploration and production, pipeline and assisted with refinery project development.

He has direct experience with a specialty chemical company startup as a principle developer. He has dealt successfully with many of the hurdles faced by project developers including obtaining venture capital and tax incentives, site selection and permitting.

Mr. Revette holds a Bachelor of Science Degree in Political Science from The University of Southern Mississippi. He also earned a Juris Doctorate Degree from the Mississippi College School of Law in Jackson, Mississippi.

Mr. Revette's primary focus since joining the Department of Economic Development, has been on the retention and enhancement of existing oil, gas and petrochemical operations as well as attracting and developing new oil, gas, petrochemical and energy businesses in the state. Mr. Revette has led the effort to coordinate the development of multiple LNG terminals and related projects proposed by several major oil, gas and energy companies in the area.