

Tammy Norman, Managing Director

Tammy joined Sempra Energy Trading in April of 2003 with the sale of the Cameron (Hackberry) LNG Terminal. Prior to Sempra, she held executive level positions with Dynegy, BP, and EnTrade. Tammy is a Managing Director focused on the development of new business ventures for Sempra Commodities. While at Sempra, she has started a coal trading desk, natural gas liquids trading desk, and most recently a renewable fuels marketing and facility development business.

In 2000, she researched the viability and potential for LNG entering the North American marketplace. She joined Dynegy in late 2000 to develop an LNG business where she oversaw the site selection, commercial, technical, and regulatory developments of the Cameron (Hackberry) project. Tammy's career prior to 2000 was focused on the energy trading and marketing business in North America.

Tammy is married with two children. She is on the board of the Houston Chapter of Teach for America, an active member of VICTORY (The American Cancer Society's all volunteer organization) and the Women's Energy Network.
